FOR THE WESTERN DISTRICT OF WISCONSIN

---

BOBBIE A. SCHEEL-BAGGS,

Plaintiff,

v.

BANK OF AMERICA, et al.,

Defendants.

ORDER

07-cv-671-bbc

---

On May 27, 2008, plaintiff submitted in camera her tax returns so that the court could act as the middleman on defendants' discovery request by extracting plaintiff's adjusted gross income from her self-employment as a dispatcher.<sup>1</sup> Here is the information:

YEAR	ADJUSTED GROSS INCOME
2003	$9,237
2004	$11,066
2005	$10,563
2006	$11,303
2007	$11,826

Entered this 6th day of June, 2008.

<sup>1</sup> Scheel-Baggs does not list Reliable Transporting, LLC as her employer on any of her tax returns, nor does she ever claim a yearly salary, gross income or proceeds approaching $36,400, contradicting her response to Defendants' Interrogatory No. 3, see dkt 36, Exh. 2. Perhaps there is a logical and reasonable explanation for these discrepancies.
